Island Cascade Awesome Sight

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Imagine a river running over a precipice 12 times as high as Victoria's tallest high-rise apartment—plunging and cascading down to a green valley below.

Victoria photographer Jorgen Svendsen and I, over Labor Day weekend, saw this awe-inspiring sight from a vantage point on a 5,000-foot mountain in Strathcona Park.

We were watching Della Falls, which some authorities claim to be one of the world's highest, tumbling 1,443 feet from its crest to rocks below.

The over-all picture of the falls, flanked by snow-clad peaks, presented one of the most beautiful and primitive scenes we had ever seen.

It was a fitting climax to a long and tiresome journey by car, boat and finally on foot, starting at daybreak from Victoria and ending 16 hours later at nightfall.

We had hiked to the falls, some 13 miles distance, from the head of Great Central Lake, to find out if it rated as the fifth highest falls in the

Wife Charged With Murder

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police today charged a woman with capital murder in the stabbing death of her husband.

Mrs. Mary Elsie Pearce was arrested Friday night, shortly after Percy George Pearce, 37, was found sprawled in a pool of blood in the kitchen of his east end home.

The body of Pearce, a Department of Veterans' Affairs janitor, was found when police responded to an ambulance call to his home.

Mac Faces PMs In Crucial Talks

London Meeting Monday

(Times News Services)
LONDON—One of the most dramatic and momentous meetings of Commonwealth prime ministers opens Monday to discuss the effects on the Commonwealth if Britain enters the European Common Market.

Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will face the most difficult task of his career when he seeks to persuade the 15 visiting prime ministers or their deputies that Britain's entry into the Common Market eventually will be of major benefit to them all.

Every Commonwealth member is deeply concerned that if Britain does enter Europe it will not mean a weakening of Commonwealth bonds.

Their views possibly were summed up by Rhodesian Federal Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky when he arrived today.

PROBLEM POSED
He said: "An economic unity to be really successful has to develop into a political unity. A political unity must mean a surrender of sovereignty to some central organizations. That is one of the problems that has got to be faced."

Prime Minister Nehru of India expressed doubt that the Commonwealth will be a force for world peace if Britain joins the European Common Market.

Nehru was among the last batch of Commonwealth leaders who arrived here today for the prime ministers' conference which opens Monday.

He told a press conference British entry into the Commonwealth might have a weakening effect on the Commonwealth, especially if some kind of European political union resulted.

Asked whether he would still consider the Commonwealth a force for world peace if Britain enters the Common Market, he replied:

"It depends on how far the Common Market is a force for peace. If it is just an extension of the NATO alliance, it becomes a party to this world conflict."

MAC WANTS MANDATE

The ECM negotiations are still far from complete and the final terms which can be obtained from the "Six" for special treatment of Britain's trade with the Commonwealth are not known.

What Macmillan hopes to obtain from this conference is a fairly wide mandate from the Commonwealth to negotiate within agreed limits.

But most of the prime ministers are unwilling to accept this. Since arriving in London, many of them have been pressing for a second conference to be held, probably early next spring, when the final terms of the "Six" should be known.

Orthodox Leader John Verigin said many are spending sleepless night watching out the window for "unwelcome guests."

EXPELLED

Pugitive French rightist leader, Georges Bidault, was expelled from Italy Friday as he was preparing for a meeting of his followers in an Adriatic coastal town. An Italian government spokesman said the 62-year-old former French premier was escorted to the frontier of his choice but refused to say which border.

Baluba Chief Escapes

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Albert Kalonji, emperor of the Baluba tribe and former secessionist leader, has escaped from a Congolese prison, qualified sources reported today.

CATHEDRAL DESTROYED

Seat of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of San Francisco and a landmark of that city for 75 years, St. Mary's Cathedral was in ruins today after a fire Friday night that caused loss estimated at $2.5 million. Firemen fought the blaze from ladders and on the ground as flames shot 50 feet skyward. Police said one man had been held for questioning and that arson was a "definite" possibility. (AP Wirephoto)

'Go, Jim Crow' Signs Greet Governor of Mississippi

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett ran a gauntlet of abuse directed at his southern segregationist policy when he arrived here Friday night to attend a dinner.

He was greeted with shouts of "swine" and "let them go"—an apparent reference to jailed Negroes—when he entered city hall as a guest at a Washington State Bar Association dinner.

Pickets carried placards saying "Heil Mississipi Führer Barnett," "Go Jim Crow," and "Desegregate the schools."

About 30 pickets representing the University of British Columbia, the New Democratic Party, and the Communist Party took part in the demonstration.

Among the pickets were Michael Audain, of Victoria, a UBC graduate student who spent a month in a Mississippi jail last year after being convicted of disturbing the peace.

He had eaten in a Negro section of a Jackson, Miss., bus depot.

Governor Barnett said in an interview he did not pay any attention to the group and that in Mississippi "all the colored people . . . like segregation and are happy."

In a speech to the bar association, he said the solution of racial problems will follow the solution of economic problems.

The whites and Negroes are struggling together for a bigger and better south with greater educational and economic opportunities for all our citizens regardless of race, color or creed."

... 'negroes are happy'

Governor Barnett warned that population trends indicate the race problem will become more acute in other parts of the United States than it ever was in the south.

He criticized the U.S. federal government for usurping rights of the state.

"May God forbid that your state and mine, your country and mine, your city and mine and your farm and mine shall ever be subjected to Washington bureaucratic police rule."

One Negro lawyer at the convention refused to attend the dinner.

Some delegates said it was proper to invite the governor to their convention if he avoided segregation issues.

Superior Court Judge Arthur Paulsen of Tacoma, Wash., said:

"He (Barnett) reflects a distinct minority opinion in America and especially in the American and Washington State Bar."

Centennial Flashback . . .

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

SEPT. 8

Fine apples harvested from the two-year-old trees of A. C. Anderson gave indication that soon Vancouver Island will need to import very little fruit from California and Oregon. In fact, some people expect a surplus in two years time.

Sore throats, coughs and colds in the head are reaching near-epidemic proportions.

It is reported from across the strait that large tracts of land around Port Angeles are being taken up by land-grabbers who propose to hold it for speculative purposes. Port Angeles is the newly-designated port of entry for Washington Territory, largely because of its harbor, said to be the finest on this coast north of San Francisco.

U.K. SOCCER

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Alex Matthew, 75, deputy Speaker in the B.C. legislature and MLA for Vancouver Centre, was married recently to Norma Irene McCue of Vancouver.

A jolly, rotund figure, Mr. Matthew has often been called the "Mr. Pickwick" of the legislature. As deputy Speaker and committee chairman, he rules with a firm but kindly hand.

His bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. E. W. Rowland of Vancouver.

In a letter to his old friend, George L. Warren, Mr. Matthew said he and Mrs. Matthew wanted to spend their honeymoon in Victoria but decided Bellingham would be "quieter."

Talk about anti-amalgamationists... our nomination for the king of them all goes to retired farmer Brian Hoole, who is active chairman of the Prospect Lake Ratepayers' Association.

He tweaked our ear the other day. Why? We carried an item about a bathing suit being left at the lake by mistake which was still there the following day, and headed it "Honest Victoria."

It should of course have been "Honest Saanich."

But Honest Injun, the union of the two will come one day...

What next?... Douglas Fraser, 750 Daisy Avenue, tells me his grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Chander, of Vancouver, met a farmer from Ashcroft who told her he has a chicken which lays green eggs.

Does anyone know if this has happened before?

I hear the local kilt community is sharpening its claymores. They believe there is an imposter in their midst.

They have observed, flying from a pole in front of the new duty-free store at Sidney, the Royal Standard of their former kings.

By Scottish law, this is an offence punishable by death.

"I'd certainly like to know how they got it," said Mrs. Gerry Inglis, president of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society.

Somebody thinks Fort Victoria is for the birds.

A man called up producer Dudley Remus at the Centennial office, offering to buy the prefabricated fort featured in The Victoria Story for use as an aviary. He said he could wire in the frame for that purpose.

Another prospective buyer wanted to use it as a backdrop for photographs. But Mr. Remus is hoping for bigger bids.

Fellow passengers on a bus travelling Up-Island Thursday would have been slightly mortified if they had known the red-haired teen-ager travelling with them.

Passing Woodward's downtown store, they spied the usual gathering of elderly citizens chatting on the benches provided by the store.

The teen-ager made no comment as they said: "I see the Woodward boys are out again!"

She was Becky MacDonald, granddaughter of the firm's founder.

... DELLA FALLS

world as claimed by some people—a claim which is disputed by others.

We also wanted to know if the falls could be opened up as a major tourist attraction.

The trip was actually sparked by Elwy Yost, well-known TV panelist of "Live a Borrowed-Life," who visited Victoria earlier this summer. He had never heard of Della Falls and expressed surprise that it isn't listed in almanacs as the highest in Canada and one of the top five in the world.

A student of waterfalls, Yost was equally surprised to learn that nothing is being done to make the falls more accessible to the general public. They are situated about 40 miles from Alberni.

But what Yost didn't know is that the height of Della Falls is in dispute. It is listed in some B.C. tourist brochures as Canada's highest, but some authorities claim it doesn't rate as such.

They point out Della does not fall "freely" a total of 1,443 feet—it's over-all height—but makes one plumb in two main jumps. That is, it falls 800 feet, cascades some 200 feet, and then falls another 400 feet.

They claim only the highest "free fall" section a waterfall can be rated. That would make Della 300 feet.

But Norman C. Stewart, who surveyed the area in 1937 claims to have seen the Della waters make the plunge in one clear jump.

The surveyor, now retired, admits that he saw this wondrous sight after heavy rains.

His claim isn't discounted by Ted Fairhurst of the federal forestry department, who has frequently visited the Della Falls region. But in his opinion for most of the year it does so in at least two descents—the first and highest a 800-foot drop.

It was these differences of opinions over the height of the falls, plus growing reports that the region could become a wonderful recreational area, which spurred us on to make the journey.

We planned a three-day trip.

Ottawa Shaves Bank Rate

OTTAWA (CP) — The emergency financial measures imposed in Canada 11 weeks ago were partly relaxed Friday with a half-point drop in the pegged lending rate of the Bank of Canada — a sign of slightly easier credit.

With the country's exchange reserves climbing and short-term market interest rates declining in recent weeks, the Bank of Canada said it was making the moderate reduction in the bank rate to 5½ per cent from "the very high level" of six.

But still the bank rate — a leading indicator of interest rates generally — remained pegged. Had it been freed to float with the government treasury bill market as it did before June 24, today it would be lower still at 5.32 per cent.

The central bank statement said the reduction follows a strengthening of confidence in the exchange rate of the Canadian dollar, reflected in the increases — $216,000 in August alone — in the official exchange reserves.

EMPHASIZES NEED

"But the bank included this caution in its statement:

"The governor (Louis Rasmussen) said that the reduction in the bank rate was not to be taken as indicating a view that Canada's balance of payments problem had been solved, and he emphasized that there was continuing need for long-run constructive measures to improve our basic international payments position."

The bank rate itself is rarely used, and only then as a minimum charge on central bank advances to the chartered banks. Between Nov. 1, 1956, and last June 24 when the financial measures were announced, it was allowed to float at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield on three-month government treasury bills.

When the rate was pegged at six per cent from a floating rate of 5.17 on June 24, it was taken as a signal of so-called "tight money." The chartered banks responded by raising their prime lending rate for commercial loans to the statutory limit of six per cent.

Thus, a dip in bank rate likely would be seen by the banking and financial community as a signal of an easing in credit conditions as controlled by the Bank of Canada. But first indications were that the chartered banks will not lower their lending rate.

Meanwhile, Finance Minister Nowlan told a reporter he was delighted at what he termed a "very encouraging development during the month" — meaning August — in the official Canadian pool of gold and U.S. dollars.

KEEPS SURCHARGES

But he gave no hint that the government is yet ready to relax its own emergency measures which included wide-ranging import surcharges, federal budget trimming and sharp reductions in the duty exemptions on goods Canadian tourists bring home from abroad.

INTEGRATION A FACT IN 'DEEP SOUTH'

Whites Wail But Schools Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negro and White youngsters in the southern states attended classes together in greater numbers than ever before as the fall term opened this week.

The boozing New Orleans white crowd and the bullets smashing the glass of a parochial school door couldn't overshadow the fact that the St. Rosalie elementary school deep-south city completed the first week of its biggest school desegregation in relative quiet.

About 300 Negroes were in integrated classrooms in 20 public and 36 parochial schools, the crowds dwindling, the bomb threats and the pickets diminishing.

The shots were fired at the one parochial school closed.

The parish priest said that "nobody showed up" at Our Lady of Good Harbor at Buras, some 80 miles south of New Orleans.

Five Negroes had enrolled opening day but haven't been back since.

Leander Perez Sr., Louisiana segregationist leader, watched the week's developments and then predicted Negroes will push the white people out of

New Orleans in 10 years.

Public school desegregation spread in Arkansas, Florida,

Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina,

Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, and in the north as well, although there were some unusual developments there.

A labama, Mississippi and

Chesapeake officials said Atlanta's successful desegregation

now in its second year with 44

Negroes attending classes at 10

formerly white high schools played a major part in the decision to adopt a policy of "open admission without regard to race or color."

South Carolina remained the only states with no integration at the public school level. Attempts to lower classroom racial barriers failed in a number of cities including Albany,

Ga., scene of mass anti-segregation demonstrations and arrests.

Roman Catholic schools in the 71-county Atlanta archidia-

cose integrated quietly with 17

Negroes attending six previously white schools.

Franco-German Interests Precede U.K.—De Gaulle

CP from AP-Reuters

MUNICH — French President de Gaulle flew here today on his state visit to West Germany and expressed happiness over the new peak reached in French-German relations.

About 5,000 people cheered de Gaulle, first French head of state to visit Germany officially.

De Gaulle declared that "conditions in this world today and the condition in Germany and France make it valuable that the bonds between Bavaria and France have been rediscovered and will remain (close) together forever."

A storm blew up shortly before de Gaulle arrived, as had occurred in the Ruhr and Hamburg, but the weather did not dampen the hearty welcome he received in all three places.

De Gaulle arrived in the Bavarian capital amid fear for the 71-year-old general's safety. There were rumors that high-ranking fugitive members of the Secret Army Organization have been hiding out in the vicinity.

Whe he arrived, about 5,000 man collaboration first," he said. "Then it must be hoped that we will succeed in establishing political collaboration among the Six, and we certainly count on it (this collaboration) being enlarged."

In another non-public speech to the German military staff academy de Gaulle said France and Germany should combine their resources to achieve an effective armed strike force.

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)

The State Ports Authority has purchased 20 goats to help in the upkeep of its Wilmington docks area. The 19 nannies and one billy goat have been assigned grass chomping chores on a fenced 40-acre tract. A. C. Smith, 40-acres manager at the docks, estimated that the move will save up to $100 a week. Current upkeep of the area costs about $150 a week.

The Glassco Report

THE INTENSIVE FIRST VOLUME of the Glassco commission report has been released to a Canadian public conditioned by austerity talk to welcome economy in the federal administration—particularly if such economies can be effected without hurting the taxpayer.

Newspaper reports of the recommendations indicate that the commission has, in this first instance, charted a course to that goal.

Unhappily the existing political situation in Canada leaves action up to a government seriously weakened after the last election and in a poor position to take strong action.

On the surface at least—as judged by reports—the commission seems to be saying that government administration in Ottawa has grown like the mastodons in their later days, unwieldy, inefficient and presumably incapable of survival in the environment of the present world.

The members of the commission seem unwilling to render harsh judgment on individuals, personnel or political groups, preferring to wrap any blame for the condition in charitable phrasing.

Red tape, obsolete procedure, unnecessary and redundant paper work emerge as the villains of the piece. Some of this can be corrected without particular detriment to the government in office—and without much adverse reaction from the voters. What can be done in that way no doubt will be done.

It is a mistake, however, to assume that the essential job of administrative reorganization can be completed painlessly. Even the present proposals—and they are only the first of four prospective volumes in the exhaustive study—will hurt some individuals and cause concern in some circles. Moreover, changes suggested will fall short of solving the main problem facing Canada—a problem set out in detail by Mr. Alex Young's series from Ottawa in this newspaper last month.

In that series Mr. Young pointed out that high cost to Canadians for the federal services they receive emerge from the demands by Canadians for those costly services. Of course the mechanics of providing them can be and should be modernized and made to function as economically as possible. They are not running that way today.

Furthermore, they will remain uneconomic as long as Parkinson's law operates, with the proliferation of growing departments whose growth, in turn, calls for still more personnel.

But the Glassco commission has pinpointed some serious flaws in the way public business is conducted in Canada—slow placement of competent people in senior posts and the establishment of what amounts to a manpower pool in which good people are stored to assure a supply of adequate candidates in the delayed process of chain promotion.

The point is made in the report—and very properly—that Canada's civil service by and large does a good job in spite of the impediments of outdated procedures. The report indicates the manner in which the service could do a better job if it were not so hampered.

How greater authority is to be given to departments with them assuming more responsibility, no doubt will be a subject of debate in Parliament. How the duties of the civil service commission are to be revised is also a subject for argument.

These, however, are secondary questions. The main one is political: Can a government, weak as is the one now in power, set a firm course toward the desired goal of higher efficiency and lower cost no matter how clearly the guideposts are fixed by the Glassco commission?

Given the will, perhaps it can. Certainly in such matters as the acquisition of up-to-date money-saving equipment, elimination of over-staffing, reorganization of senior salary scales to keep good men in the service and happy to be there, as well as in cutting red tape, any government could expect public support.

At the same time, issues which seem straightforward to investigating commissioners could be prickly to politicians, particularly prickly when a government languishes in the weakened condition suffered by the Diefenbaker administration since June 18.

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp . . .

One of the many things for which this column will never be forgiven by its daughter is the poor timing of its visit to the Slocan Valley a few weeks ago.

"Are we nearly there?" was a constant refrain. "How much farther?" At Castlegar, she felt on the threshold of a great adventure.

Curiously enough, the large scale map we were using, a really first-class job published by the Department of Lands and Forests, appeared unaware of Krestova. It was specific as to the location of such humdrum settlements as Zincton, Gray Creek and Glasshouse, but as to the last exciting relic of Czarist oppression, it was silent, blank.

Daughter's agitation, as she was driven toward Slocan, could be felt; a heavy cloud of apprehension spilling over from the back seat. Every rustic by the roadside must be asked for directions; but on the few occasions that stops were made for this purpose, little information was elicited.

There seemed to be a conspiracy of silence, led by the Department of Lands and Forests. It was hard to convince the girl that nobody knew.

"They're just not talking," said she. The poor kid, with visions of enormous naked ladies with torches being chased about the countryside by policemen, was becoming a prey to the most unworthy suspicions.

"They're just covering up!" she remarked gloomily, from time to time. "I don't think they realize the tourist potential they have here. It can't be very far away. Try that side road, Pa."

We tried one or two, but to no avail. Nothing but trees, and no evidence of fire anywhere.

At last we managed to convince the child that the whole thing was just a lot of propaganda. There really was no such place; and no such people. After all, it wasn't on the map, while everything else was.

And now they're on the road to the coast, and the faith of a young girl in her father has been destroyed.

Unless, of course, it really is just a lot of propaganda. Time, and the various zoning bylaws in the Fraser Valley, will tell.

OTTAWA—There are two totally opposite ways of looking at Britain's bid to join the European Economic Community.

One is negative; uncompromising, marked by an unwillingness to admit the world must progress.

The other is positive, unbiased by antipathy towards change, able to weigh unpalatable facts against a vista of new opportunities.

There seems little doubt that Prime Minister Diefenbaker must adopt some degree of the latter, the positive approach, at the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London next week. His government already has daren't the negative line without success—at Accra a year ago, and even before that, when it recouped in a state of near shock from Britain's 1957 offer to work out a program of bilateral tariff reductions leading eventually to Anglo-Canadian free trade.

That 1957 offer would have created an Anglo-Canadian common market within two decades. It might well have pointed the way to a Commonwealth common market, and at least it would have given protection to Canadian trading interests in the British market, albeit at some considerable cost to our manufacturing industries.

The present alternative, Britain in the European Common Market with Canada on the outside, initially will cost our manufacturing industries many of their British sales and our farmers much of their British market. Moreover, our manufacturers are expected to face increased competition in the domestic market from efficient, low-cost ECM industry.

In its negative line on Britain's bid to join the ECM, the government put all emphasis on its fears that 76 per cent of Canada's exports to Britain of nearly $1,000,000,000 a year would suffer at least some injury by the erection of an ECM tariff around Britain.

It paid little attention to the longer term compensating advantages—an economically stronger Britain able to buy more from Canada, a more prosperous Europe, with which to exchange trade concessions, and a united Europe as a force for international peace.

But that was before an election in which, without much doubt, the government's opposition to Britain on the common market issue cost the Conservatives votes. With another election in the offing it is doubtful if Diefenbaker would dare talk in London the way Donald Fleming and George Hees talked at Accra.

Liberal leader Pearson put the issue into better perspective this week when he said Britain's move "must be considered only as one aspect of extensive and significant changes" that Canada and the Commonwealth cannot prevent.

Rather, he said, Canada and the Commonwealth should adapt to them and seek, with the U.S., to negotiate tariff reductions with the ECM "that will open up new trading opportunities for us in the U.S. as in Europe."

He sees British entry into Europe as "not a dead end (but) . . . a new road to progress," and the task next week "to begin the building of a new structure of Commonwealth trade in a new trading world."

But still there are those who decry the British move as little short of treason to Queen and Commonwealth—like an Ontario churchman who recently declared that Britain's punishment for joining the ECM should be expulsion from the Commonwealth.

Canada Not Helped by Joining Free Market Group, Says Hees

OTTAWA (CP)—It would not be to Canada's advantage to take out membership in any of the free-trade areas that have been suggested, Trade Minister Hees said Friday.

When Canadian membership in some bloc akin to the European Common Market is proposed, he told an industrial expansion conference, the idea should be studied thoroughly and not treated as "a mere round phrase that rolls easily off a platform."

His department had carefully studied the question and "there has yet to come to light a net advantage to Canada as a whole in the joining of any of these groupings that have been suggested."

Canadian businessmen who advocated taking the country into a free-trade grouping were those whose enterprises would benefit from such a move.

The one-day conference was sponsored by the trade department.

CRITICIZES TAXATION

The conference produced many criticisms of the present rates of taxation.

Said Carl A. Pollock, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and Dominion Electrohome:

"The existing burdensome taxation system is a serious drag on economic growth and a deterrent to job-creating investment and risk-taking. . . ."

"Our success in preserving and prolonging life has raised the spectre of hunger on a scale never before envisaged."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Congress cannot quarrel with the president when, as commander-in-chief, he asks for standby authority to call up reservists. But, Dirksen said, "There will be questions."

ART IN REVIEW By ARTHUR CORRY

Demolition Tour Strips U.S. Gods Down to BVD's

EGGHEAD'S GUIDE TO AMERICA, by Wade Thompson (Macmillan).

Thompson walks down the glass-lined streets of present-day America with a stone in either hand. His targets include just about every favored American institution except Motherhood, which presumably will be taken up in another book.

The crystalline facades at which his rocks are directed include those of the FBI, the Defence Department, the House Un-American Activities Committee, the DAR and Radio City Music Hall, of which he has some first-hand experience.

"It's my purpose in this book to take the reader on a sort of demolition tour of America—to strip some of our most sacred institutions down to their BVD's and to show what can be done about them if anybody sees fit inclined," Thompson says.

A lot of what he writes about is outrageously—and often disturbingly—funny, but mainly this is a book worthy of serious discussion, pro or con.

Millions of comets fly through the cosmos, but most are too faint to be seen from earth.

All Crafts Available In Evening Classes

With the mass return to school this last week of the young population, we adults find there is time to do a few things we have always wanted to. Of course the timely publication of the Adult Education program for the Greater Victoria area is an aid in helping us decide what we have always wanted to do.

Victoria Art Gallery offers three courses directed and taught by Arnold Burrell, painting for beginners, an advanced class in painting, and a technique of silk screen printing.

This latter subject, silk screening, is offered only by the Gallery, out of all art classes available in the city. Steven Lowe will again be instructing the fine art and brush technique of Oriental painting. His course attracts a varied group and offers the artist an opportunity to follow tradition with a free and flowing style.

The Art League of Victoria, as well as full-time day classes, offers a variety of evening classes. Basic drawing and painting, life classes, water color painting, brush painting, commercial art, interior design are included in a rather complete schedule.

Such well known and top instructors as Allan Edwards, B. Travers-Smith, Frank Bass, S. Lowe, and A. Greenbank, will be conducting the classes at the League.

The Adult Education Program of Greater Victoria School Board is possibly the largest they have undertaken to date. Practically every subject is covered, with arts and crafts forming an important section of the over-all plan.

Drawing and painting, elementary, intermediate, and advanced courses have some of the finest instructors and are available in all three districts. Life drawing, direct from a model, at Central Junior High School, is offered by the serious-minded artist.

Among many crafts are ceramics, weaving, jewellery making, leathercraft, stone polishing, textile painting, woodworking and pottery.

Mrs. M. McLennan, in her studio, covers techniques of the professional potter, both on the wheel and by slab work. Finishing and glazing is also included and at such a nominal cost that this is a rare opportunity.

As a profession or a hobby, one cannot afford to miss participating in one or several classes now available to the Victoria public.

BIBLE JAPANESE BEST
SELLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Scriptures are outselling Japanese fiction and non-fiction, the American Bible Society reports.

Total distribution of Bibles, testaments and portions in Japan in 1961 reached 2,505,305 copies, the society says. This compared with 1,100,000 copies of the most popular Japanese non-fiction work and 250,000 for the leading book of fiction.

On the 25th anniversary of his appointment as general manager of Ryerson Press, Dr. C. H. Dickinson said: "It is sad that more books aren't written to allow their readers to stretch their minds as they read . . . This may be an important factor in the loss of interest in fiction in recent years. Writers should look at life on a higher plane with a sense of genuine purpose in life."

It is probable that the overprinted stamps will soon be replaced with new designs, so they should be obtained before they become obsolete.

Another stamp which will go off sale soon (Sept. 29) will be the Uganda issue commemorating the discovery of the source of the Nile 100 years ago by John Henning Speke.

On account of the rather irregular procedure Gibbons will not list them in their new catalogue, which, by the way, may be expected any day.

The falls no longer exist, as they have been flooded by the Onewe Falls Dam, a hydroelectric project downstream.

Jamaica recently celebrated the 9th Central American and Caribbean Games, held at Kingston, with a set of four colorful stamps, illustrating the various sports included in the program.

The set is a "must" for the many thematic collectors who specialize in sports stamps.

Denominations are not too high—1d, 6d, 8d, and 2sh.

Miniature sheets showing the 4 stamps in the form of a block also exist, and are good for postage. But they were not on sale at the post office, being obtainable only from the Games Committee.

On account of the rather irregular procedure Gibbons will not list them in their new catalogue, which, by the way, may be expected any day.

Jamaica's current issue now consists of 12 of the regular series of Queen Elizabeth overprinted in black with the words "Independence 1962" (1d, 1d, 2d, 3d, 5d, 6d, 8d, 1sh, 2sh, 3sh, 10sh, and 1fl), plus four extra specially printed stamps—2d, 4d, 1sh-6d, and 5sh.

(BB Plus) "BON VOYAGE" (Capitol) — It may have been just the Fred MacMurray-Walt Disney names on the marquee and the still-chucklesome memories of the wild-and-zany flubber business of the "Absent-minded Professor" yarn that caused Disney's latest, "Bon Voyage," to seem rather slow and tame in the comparison.

Or perhaps the comparison is unfair. For this, in its way, is much closer to life than the "Absent-Minded Professor," as it tells of MacMurray, wife Jane Wyman and children, taking off for a trip abroad. Nevertheless, Bill Walsh's screenplay of the novel by Marianne and Joseph Hayes could have moved a mile faster and the fun-less stood out.

From beginning to end of the film's two-hour and 13-minute running time, however, there are several "hings" going for it. First of all there is the versatile veteran MacMurray who makes the most of the role of an Indiana plumber (supplies) who is taking his elegant Bostonian wife abroad on an oft-delayed European trip.

ROMANCE BLOOMS

The three "delays" are neatly played off by Deborah Walley, as his eldest daughter; by Tommy Kirk, as his semi-grown up son, and young Kevin Corcoran as the young est child.

Of course the boat has scarcely moved from the pier than a romance is blooming between Deborah and playboy Michael Callan while son Tommy is making sheep's eyes at all the young lovelies aboard. After that complications fall upon complications.

Also on the credit side are the excellent shipboard scenes and views of Paris et al done in Technicolor of such faithfulness that sometimes you almost feel as though you are on the trip yourself.

And, best of all possibly, "Bon Voyage" may be enjoyed by the entire family — another Disney trademark.

"CAREFUL" CASTING

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Broadway producer-director Joshua Logan has signed with Seven Arts Production to produce and direct "The Careful Man," based on an original story by Max Franklin.

The story, a suspenseful team. Audrey Hepburn and Cary Grant are being sought to play the couple.

Merrick says he couldn't be less interested. Writing is more important than acting, he says. "There will always be actors-writers are tough to find."

Next to actors, Merrick hates New York critics the most.

"Some of my most successful shows have been panned. And some of my least successful have got rave reviews."

String Ensemble To Play Thursday

There will be no admission concert to be presented next charge for the string ensemble Thursday evening in the Empress Hotel ballroom. The ensemble will consist of about 25 string players from Victoria Symphony Orchestra under direction of Vancouver concert violinist Esther Glazer.

The free concert comes as the climax of several weeks' study of string playing technique by the group.

Sessions were organized by the Symphony Society and its director, Hans Gruber, who arranged for Miss Glazer to instruct the classes. Costs were partly paid through Canada Council funds.

A feature of the concert will be the Bach Double Violin Concerto in which Miss Glazer will team with Victoria Symphony assistant concert mistress, Julia Hunt.

AUDITIONS SLATED FOR OPERA 'AMAH'L'

After a lapse of three years, Menotti's Christmas in music drama, "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will again be presented at Christ Church Cathedral in December of this year.

In this connection the directors, Audrey St. Denis Johnson and Richard Proudman, will hold auditions next Saturday at 3:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street.

Parts to be auditioned are Amahl, boy soprano, Balther, the Ethiopian King, bass-baritone, and the Page, a baritone.

Star turn will be provided by Jimmy Logan, one of Scotland's premier entertainers, direct from the Alhambra Theatre, Glasgow.

Others will include Dennis Clancy, song stylist, beautiful BBC soprano Margaret MacDonald and pianist Olive Rae.

St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies are sponsoring the event.

GUEST STAR

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Dick Powell Anthology" television series has signed Carolyn Jones to guest star in the episode "The Sea Witch." Aaron Spelling will produce the show, written from an original story by Los Angeles Times television editor, Cecil Smith.

ST. LUKE'S To Spoof Gay 90's

A fun-filled backward look at the turn of the century will be St. Luke's Player's contribution to current centennial celebrations.

In producing the melodrama, "Lily, the Felon's Daughter," Sept. 20, 21 and 22 at the parish hall, the group also acknowledges the fact that St. Luke's Church itself is just over 100 years old.

The play, complete with such stock characters as a heroine (pure and innocent), dastardly villain and dying old mother, is being directed by Harry Lukey.

Old time songs will intersperse the action to the accompaniment of a typical honky-tonk piano.

In the cast are Margery Bridgeman, Eavan Murray, Roy Blevins, Dennis Kershaw, Don Martin, Betty Jean Pierre, Noel Ethell, May Mack, Lynn Kershaw, Blossom Johnston and Charles Gibson.

Bugs Side With Man

NEW YORK (UPI) — The typhlodromus mite, a predator of Biological Control, University of California. In his warfare against insect pests, man is neglecting one powerful weapon — insects themselves, the expert said.

This example of a living insecticide was cited recently by Carl B. Huffaker of the De-

Insect Source

NEW YORK (UPI) — The lac, a tiny parasitic insect found on certain types of plum trees in India, Burma and Siam, is the source of all shellac.

It lives on limbs and twigs, secreting lac resin. This is scraped off and made into shellac. Paint experts say science knows much about the chemical composition of lac, but cannot produce it synthetically.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Soil Type Prime Factor For Celery Cultivation

By JACK BEASTALL

Since celery is not a popular crop with home gardeners, little has been mentioned in this column on its culture.

There is always the argument that more publicity would result in its being more widely grown, but in our case it is the soil that spells success or failure, and few of us have the rich sandy loam which makes for succulent and juicy stalks.

The few gardeners who can, and do grow celery, already have their favorite variety and their own methods of culture. Some use a type that has to be artificially blanched, others prefer a self-blanching or a Utah green.

These two latter do away with the necessity for mounting soil or tying the plants in paper to make the stalks white and tender.

In answer to enquiries that have been received, mounting soil around the plants is the original method of blanching. The soil must be dry, also the foliage and stems so that rotting is not encouraged.

The plants are individually tied with string to prevent the soil from getting between the stems and not more than four inches is banked at one time.

This method requires wide spacing between the rows in order to have sufficient soil to mound the plants without removing it from the immediate root area.

Few at a Time

Another method is to tie each plant individually with a collar of brown paper or tar paper. A series of narrow collars are used one above the other as the plants make growth.

When the plants are touching each other in the row, a strip of tar paper can be run along one side, around the end plant and back along the other side to the starting point, using a few stakes here and there to keep the wrapping in place.

Celery boards, which are boards of suitable widths, are used commercially, the height being increased by adding extra boards to those already in place.

Another commercial practice is to dig the plants and set them in earth in a dark building, with boards between each row. This is used in districts where severe weather makes it impossible to handle an outdoor crop after October.

The home gardener is not interested in producing quantities of celery for market, therefore it is some modification of these practices that is used.

For the average home only four or six plants need be blanched at one time, and individual tying or the use of drain tiles slipped over the plants, is usually the most satisfactory method.

Nitrogen Plants

When a plant is removed for use, the covering is moved to another plant and thus a succession is maintained.

Briefly, any material will do the job which excludes light and does not harbor too much moisture.

The rye will pick up the remains of the fertilizers used on the summer crops, and when turned under will release it to the second sowing which will hold it until spring.

This is much better than having good plant food carried into the ditches by winter rains.

Tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, marrow and peppers all need liquid feeding to hasten growth and maturity this year. Remove flowers which can have no place of producing fruit.

Check figs and peaches each day for ripeness. They mature quickly now and both are so delicious when picked at their peak of ripeness that it is a pity to miss the treat.

Lift late onions, and dry out doors daily in sunshine, taking them in each day as the sun goes off them.

Don't forget to tend that late sowing of vegetables, continue thinning for use, and water as needed.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Potted chrysanthemums can be top dressed with compost; tie in each stem as it grows to a separate stake. Check the plants frequently and remove any side buds or shoots which may develop and are not wanted.

Cuttings of short new growths of pansies and violas can be put into sandy soil in a coldframe to make nice plants to set out in spring. Lavender, sage and thyme cuttings can also go into frame.

Selection of plants required for planting later should be made at the nurseries so that plans can be carried out as soon as ground is readied.

In greenhouse or sunporch, cuttings of fuchsias, heliotrope, begonias, and the various kinds of pelargoniums may be taken if sufficient space will be available during winter to look after them.

Lawns Followed Flag

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whenever the British Empire staked its flag, a lawn was sure to follow. From Capetown and Calcutta to New Zealand, British settlers have attempted to fashion lawns from the soil of five continents.

However, according to the Melnor lawn products company, the British were not always successful in their gardening efforts because of the wide varieties of climate and soil around the world.

HOUSING HINTS

Q. Are an architect's fees out of reach of the average homeowner?

A. No. As in any other specialty, the cost must be measured against the value of the service. By the same token you could say a doctor or dentist's fees are expensive, but few of us would consider removing our own appendix or extracting our own teeth. This is where the service of an expert pays off.

Many homeowners now living with some serious mistake that went unchecked at the time of construction would gladly pay the architect's fee twice over if it would help. But in most cases it's too late and too expensive to correct errors of this nature.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Occasionally, your agent collects mail from readers who would like to put the foot to football news in y'r favorite daily journal.

They would stamp it out, give it to the Eskimo freeze, rough ride it to death. "Besides," dripped one caustic pen, "the Lions are so bad they couldn't even beat the Little Sisters of the Poor."

So what would they have in its place?

"Wrestlers are cute," trilled a female subscriber. So are tsetse flies, lady. But who cares?

Croquet? Tiddlywinks? Checkers? All rousing games calculated to stir the metabolism. Especially when played with a warm blonde in a cool bathing suit.

No, friends, whether you cherish the Lions or prefer your pig skinned some other way, the facts are clear: football is as much a part of the B.C. native's life as taxes, a Kelowna yaback named Bennett and oyser policemen.

It has been that way since the day nine years ago when a Lithuanian with an incurable ailment marched over the gridiron.

ANNIS STUKUS was the disciple. And his trouble was nothing all British Columbians except the deaf couldn't diagnose immediately: he couldn't stop talking. Service clubs, PTAs, patrons of the arts (pool and snooker) all were subjected to the Stukus fervor and fever.

The disease spread rapidly. Overnight armchair quarterbacks sprang up like crab grass. Business firms, eager to ride the coattails of a good thing, backed quarterback clubs for kids and started throwing money around as if it were going out of style.

In Vancouver a national auto manufacturer blows some $20,000 annually to back the halftime show before captive audiences rarely below 20,000. The makers also supply free samples to the B.C. general manager and coach. The assistant coaches, poor chaps, have to share a vehicle. Another firm put up a huge bull for presentation to the Best-Canadian on the Lions. On the evidence to date the winner could be any one of 14,000 Lions' season ticket holders, whose endurance and devotion in the face of perennial frustration is something to behold.

Lawyer Ian Attended to Oversight

It was only natural that worshippers sought a reason to convene when the Lions inflicted their mediocrity away from home. This led to the formation of Touchdown Clubs, the name being derived quite likely from the damage inflicted on B.C. by other charter members of the Western Conference.

Until this week, Victoria lacked a Touchdown Club. This grave oversight was attended to by one Ian Stewart. A football player before he went legitimate and was called to the bar (not Joe's), Mr. Stewart enlisted Don Swan and Thomas Watt as aides.

Promptly at 12:20 p.m. Thursday the Victoria chapter of B.C. Touchdown Clubs was born in a banquet room of the Dominion Hotel.

Thirty-two assorted citizens assembled, including Lyle Wicks. You remember Lyle. He warmed the bench for the B.C.-Bennett Confiscating Crows—before he was waived out of the Legislative League. There was also a agent in a white jacket and sporty Lions' tie—orange and black. Normally Jack Lyons presides over the 500-member Vancouver TD Club. This day he made noises about being happy over the birth of the 18th club in B.C. He almost refrained from mentioning that the Labat brewing interests for whom he had put up the two cases of suds for lucky ticket-holders.

Mr. Swan read a telegram from Herb Capozzi, the Lions' general manager. "Wish you luck. Hope both our seasons are successful." Mild laughter.

Don't Miss the Sandwich Scramble

Mr. Stewart took the floor. The purpose of the gathering, he said, "was to establish a cameraderie among followers of football. He also hoped to pull 'support' from businessmen for the 'advancement' of minor football here. Anyone else would have substituted 'sheekels' for 'support' but Mr. Stewart is gentle and a lawyer.

Mr. Lyons introduced Mei Mein and Norris Stevenson, active and reserve members of the Lions. Remember the name Stevenson. Since he began coaching the Vancouver Junior Merlomas they have been unstoppable. The way the Lions embrace and dispose of coaches, he may get Dave Skrien's job even though he couldn't make the club.

While Mr. Stewart swore he had nothing to do with it, the particular film shown covered the Lions' in-handling of Regina 33-7. That night B.C. shoved the Roughies out into Burrard Inlet. Lately, though, something has happened to their shoving technique.

When it was over, Stewart announced they would do it again next Thursday. They hope to fatten up the program by having a Lions' coach, question-and-answer period and a film of the Ottawa-B.C. game.

People who blanch at the sight of bloodshed are warned to bring their own plasma refills. The Ottawas don't tackle the enemy. They cream him. If you plan to attend, come early. The scrimmage for sandwiches and coffee is almost as exciting as the rest of the program.

'WEAKEST TEAM' CROWN

Argos Will Attempt To Give Lions Title

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts and British Columbia Lions meet here Sunday in a battle that should decide which of them is the weakest in the Canadian Football League.

Argos, because of their four losses in four starts, are the current holders of the title. Lions, who have won two and lost four, are their biggest threat. Both teams are last in their divisions.

The question is: to be, will Hall move the ball or will Argos continue to fall?

Pete Hall, who has only four minutes' experience in Canadian football, will be calling the signals for the Eastern Conference Argos. The former New York Giant quarterback takes over from Tom Dubinski as Tobin Rose's replacement.

Role, the celebrated passer, broke the index finger on his passing hand three weeks ago against Hamilton Tiger-Cats and is still unable to play.

Dubinski took over last weekend against Ottawa. Rough Riders, Argos lost and coach Nobby Wirkowski, although he

WIRE CUT ACCIDENTAL

Allouettes Claim Innocence

MONTREAL (CP) — No one officially accused Montreal Alouettes of cutting the telephone wire in the British Columbia game but for the record the Als have entered a plea of innocence.

B.C. coach Dave Skrien said after Thursday night's game that the telephone line between the B.C. bench and the spotter's box had been severed before the second half.

He fumed that it was done "deliberately" but he did not point the finger at anyone specific.

Friday Danny Pickett, Montreal's director of development, issued his team's version of what happened.

Pickett said the line was cut unwittingly by the crew manning a mobile television camera at ground level near the bench. He said a television official told him later what had happened.

The Lions were leading 5-0 at halftime but lost the game 21-19 after George Dixon crashed for three touchdowns in a five-minute spree in the final quarter.

Skrien contended the broken line reduced B.C.'s effectiveness because he lost the benefit of information relayed from high above the field by his spotter.

THIRD GAME TONIGHT

Sticks for Lacrosse Only?

Rival coaches Ron Jay and Larry Kendall sat in opposite corners of the room at a banquet Friday night, but they still managed to get "together" on one thing.

That "togetherness" came with their promises of what to expect when Brampton Excelsiors and Victoria Shamrocks cross sticks again tonight in the third game of the best-of-seven Canadian Junior lacrosse final.

"We'll play lacrosse," said Jay, who shares Victoria coaching duties with Tommy Drue.

"So will we," announced Kendall, the Brampton pilot.

Sid Greenwood and Jack Northup are hoping, undoubtedly, it will be so. Referees assigned to handle the series, Greenwood and Northup have been the most over-worked pair in town.

A total of 190 minutes in penalties (165 to Brampton) have been assessed in the first two games. Excelsiors scored in the opener, 13-10, and the Rocks evened the series with Thursday's 23-7 rout.

The rugged Ontario club received 65 of the 116 minutes in the second match, including five majors.

"Brampton's rough play in the first two games has been ridiculous," Jay charged earlier Friday. "Someone's liable to get badly hurt if Brampton keeps it up."

Kendall has cautioned his squad about taking needless penalties. The youthful coach, a most likeable chap, added that his players "have only themselves to blame" for one-sided loss.

"My boys can play lacrosse. If they couldn't, we wouldn't be here," he said.

Kendall plans to make "some changes" for tonight's game, but this morning still was undecided about his combinations.

Victoria will be without defenceman Jack May, who automatically sits out one game after receiving a match misconduct Thursday for failing to fight after being warned not to by Northup.

Shamrocks, it was understood, were hoping to get Canadian Lacrosse Association approval to use forward Ross MacDonald of Vancouver Vin-dex as a replacement. A CLA decision on the matter was expected this afternoon.

There was some doubt, also, about dressing Dave Colletti. The Victoria forward scored five goals in Thursday's game but suffered a leg injury in the third quarter.

REBOUNDS: Team officials have asked for a third referee, but that's another decision to be made this afternoon. A number of Brampton supporters were due to arrive in Victoria today. Excelsiors' Ron Pettibone was a winner and teammate Tom Conlin a loser when the Brampton team was taken salmon fishing Friday by Bud Blackburn of Anglers' Rentals. Pettibone caught the only fish, a seven-pound coho, while Conlin slipped into the salt-chuck off the dock.

Opinions On Future Divided

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Economic barometers this week indicated fair weather, but the possibility of storms beyond the horizon persisted.

The preponderance of new business statistics was favorable. However, the improvement was by no means impressive. Opinion about the state of business remained sharply divided.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said that information currently available "seems to confirm that the economy has weathered an unusual combination of adverse influences better than many people expected."

On the other hand, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said, "we are not growing fast enough economically to keep pace with our growing population and sooner or later we will be in serious trouble."

The employment-unemployment picture could be viewed two ways. The number of employed rose to a record 69,762,000 in August despite seasonal expectations of a decline. Unemployment, which usually shows a substantial drop at this time of the year, fell off only slightly. As a result, the idle rate rose to 5.8 per cent of the work force from 5.3 per cent in July.

NO SIGN OF RECESSION

Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said he didn't see anything in the job figures pointing to a recession.

Automobile and steel production have perked up.

The automakers, nearing full stride in output of 1963 models, turned out an estimated 66,000 passenger cars against 35,378 last week. They are expected to operate at full blast this month, assembling 456,000 cars, compared with 195,518 in August. If sales hold up, production is expected to soar even higher in October.

Steel output renewed its advance last week with mills melting 1,672,000 tons, up 3.8 per cent over the previous week. For this year through Sept. 1, production totalled 67,978,000 tons, a gain of 9.4 per cent over the comparable period of last year.

Businessmen were particularly cheered by the condition of the paperboard industry, which they consider a sensitive indicator of future business. Paperboard is the material from which most boxes for packing merchandise are made.

The National Paperboard Association reported orders to mills in the four weeks ended Aug. 25 increased 6.4 per cent over the comparable 1961 period.

Creditors Want Control Of Nutri-Bio

VANCOUVER (CP)—A creditor's meeting will be held here September 12 to hear a proposal of Nutri-Bio of Canada, Ltd., that they supervise its operations for a year to avert bankruptcy.

The proposal for creditor supervision was filed under the Bankruptcy Act here by company president Charles W. Young. The company has debts of $600,000 but claims in the statement that it has assets of more than $1,000,000.

The creditor's meeting was called by trustee N. S. Vallance, of Peat Marwick, Mitchell & Company. He said the company's difficulties arise from cash advances to affiliated companies, a decline in sales, and overdue accounts receivable.

Nutri-Bio of Canada, Ltd., is an affiliate of the Nutri-Bio Corporation of the United States and sells vitamin pills under a franchise from that company. United States interests hold a 30 per cent interest in the Canadian company.

GENERAL sales manager of Victoria's Olson Motors Ltd., Kenneth Evans has graduated from the dealer management course held recently at the Ford Marketing Institute in Detroit. The course is one of a number offered at the institute to dealers and their personnel.

CLOSEUP THAT BACKFIRED —Photographer Ray Menzies, Brantford, Ont., wanted a good closeup picture of this 185-foot smokestack coming down, but when the bulldozer nudged out the last of the last of the bricks Menzies discovered that he was a little too close. A cautious cameraman who stood a little further back caught his overbold brother leaving the scene in haste. Bulldozer operator ran for cover the other way. (CP photo)

New Takeover Bids in Air

By GORDON BELL

Times Business Editor

There's a strong rumor, backed up by considerable stock market activity, that

Pan American Petroleum Ltd., wholly-owned subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana, is making a bid to take over Canada Southern Petroleums Ltd.

Canada Southern holds rights to some of the potentially-richest natural gas lands in northern British Columbia and the Northwest Territories. Through a subsidiary it also has interests in Wyoming and Colorado oil fields.

The move would be a natural for Pan Am which has taken a lead in far north gas development and is reputed to have brought in some wells which will rank among the greatest producers in the world.

Continuing takeover activity in the Canadian oil industry, Denison Mines Ltd. is seeking control of Westburne Oil Co. Ltd. with an offer of $160,230 during the first eight months of the year or $178,077,800 more than the corresponding period last year.

Figures by regions included: Western $342,954,200, down $27,906,400.

Strontium in Milk Doubled Between January and June

OTTAWA (CP)—Levels of radioactive fallout in Canada climbed to near-record highs earlier this year, reflecting discharge from Russian atomic testing last fall.

The national health department reported Friday that total fallout hit an over-all average in June which was almost three times that of January. And radioactive strontium 90 in milk climbed to twice that of the preceding 12-month period and only slightly below the June, 1959, record.

The department's fallout figures were released as an Alberta doctor suggested a sharp rise in the incidence of birth malformations in that province may be related to the increase in radioactive fallout since 1959.

NO STATISTICS

However, a federal authority said there is no statistical evidence to connect the two and that no pattern has emerged from preliminary reports of studies on deformities.

The fallout levels were well below maximum international safety levels and represent only a fraction of the total natural radiation to which man has always been exposed.

Strontium 90, which has an affinity for calcium and can affect bone development, reached an average concentration in milk in June of 20.2 micromicrocuries per gram of calcium compared with 1.1 in January and February. There was a slight drop in March followed by steady increases in April, May and June. The record high was 21.3 registered in June, 1959.

DOWN IN FEBRUARY

Fallout in rainfall soared to an average of 118.9 microuries per square kilometre from 42.4 in January. February showed a slight increase and March a slight decline but the sharp rise in April continued in May and June.

DOWNTWARD TREND

Air sampling for radioactive fallout showed continuation of the downward trend observed in the first quarter. At that time the decline was attributed to the decay of short-lived radioactive products which make up the bulk of radioactivity reaching the earth after a nuclear explosion.

The rise in strontium 90 levels recorded during the second quarter of the year had been expected since the first of the year.

ARTHUR MAYSE

The other day I dropped in on a Renaissance man with a slightly nasal English voice, the compact build of a sparrowhawk, and a glance sharply bright as a rapier.

His name is Robert H. Savery, he is a landscape architect for the British Columbia government, and between laying out our new courthouse grounds and getting on with a nine-year labor of love at St. John's Church hall, he found time this year to design a fountain.

As a matter of fact, Robert Savery plotted 13 fountains. The one fleshed in Birmingham bronze and grey Nelson Island granite between Superior Street and the dignified facade of the Legislative Buildings Connaught wing simply happens to be the design chosen by the provincial public works department.

I asked Master Savery — "Mr." applied to this man so plainly living out of context is anachronistic as his prickly grey tweeds—if he often visits his disputed birthplace. He stared at me in open surprise.

"Never go near it," he said. "It's finished, isn't it? When a job's done I've expanded my interest in it, I'm ready for something new."

But he did consent to stroll down to what he prefers to call the Connaught Gardens Fountain. Arrived, he swept the creatures of his fancy—wolf and bear, raven and eagle, sportive sea otters and wheeling seagulls—with an objective eye.

"Did you know," he asked, "that from practically any point in the circle, those gulls appear in the same position?"

I didn't. We circled the rim, Master Savery stepping briskly.

"When the Birmingham Guild founders say my sketches, they said, 'You've given us a most difficult thing to do.' They hate aerial statuary. There was some talk of rods, but we solved the problem by casting the gulls' wings as a bar."

Master Savery paused by his raven, totem bird of one of our four Indian clans. "You see the crab in its talons? I'm pleased with that era." See how its shell is slightly crushed at one edge?"

But the raven itself pleased him not at all when he crossed to England to mastermind the execution of his fauna.

"The position was wrong," he told me, "and it came out looking like a robin. I went to the Tower and did one of the two ancient king's ravens there, and we worked from that. See the detail of the feathers? They do fine work, those people."

We came to the bear. I told Master Savery how on previous visits I had watched children gaze at that proper bruisin, then as if drawn by some basic instinct, pat, stroke and hug it.

"I know, I know," said the man who never goes near his fountain. "They like to get their hands on his big fat rump. I work the same way: learned the trick from my mother who was a carver. Did I tell you I moulded my birds and beasts in clay first, then sketched my models?"

We passed the totemic

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Esquimalt and Victoria West United Churches have entered upon an experimental combination of activities for this year.

Mrs. Ruth Owen will direct the Christian education programs of both churches and Rev. G. Howard Turpin will be minister of both.

The September meeting of the Adoption Committee for Aid to Displaced Persons will be held Monday at noon in St. Andrew's Cathedral Hall, corner View and Blanshard streets.

Specialty sales clerks and domestic service workers remain in demand, despite placement of 804 men and women in jobs during August, National Employment Service said today.

There were only 1,391 men and 906 women registered for work at the end of the month, against 1,578 men and 871 women at the end of July.

A year ago the figures were 34.4 per cent higher at 2,122 men and about 11 per cent greater with 1,035 women.

John N. Smith, no fixed address, was committed for trial on a charge of breaking and entering Uplands Golf Club July 21 when he appeared in Oak Bay police court Friday.

He and Gerald Elmer Young, with whom he is jointly charged, will appear at the Fall Assizes.

Smith is being held in the city to answer another breaking and entering charge arising from a Tuesday morning safe cracking at Auto Electric Services Ltd.

Padre Gets Name On Wall of Cell

MONTREAL (CP)—There's a jail cell in Montreal with Rev. William McLean's name scribbled on the wall along with directions on how to reach him.

Father Bill, as Montreal's waterfront padre is best known, was telling how he found out about it.

"A sailor called me from police detention cells one day to say he was scheduled to go before a judge in a few minutes and asked my help. I asked him how he got my number."

He said a note was scribbled on the cell wall telling seamen in trouble how to get in touch with me."

The incident is an indication of the faith seafarers have in the 65-year-old Presbyterian minister who has spent 25 years helping sailors. On any day he's likely to be found on the docks, in Joe Beef's waterfront tavern or in court.

Officially he is manager and chaplain of the Montreal Sailors Institute which this year celebrates its 100th anniversary. But he finds himself most deeply involved in the spiritual rather than physical side of operating the institute, set up by Montreal shipping executives and other businessmen interested in seamen's welfare.

"People have the wrong impression of seamen. Sure, you'll find trouble-makers, but most of them are hard-working men in an honorable industry supporting families back home," he said.

"They're Off!"
for United Appeal!

Women
Victoria Daily Times SAT., SEPT. 8, 1962 21

Members of this year's committee for the United Appeal which got off to a good start at the beginning of the month, gathered this week at Sandown race track in Sidney to discuss plans of the racing association to donate net profits from opening day, Friday, Sept. 14, to the fund. Pictured above, near the paddock, are, from the left, Mr. George Gregory, president of the drive; Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. Alf Toone, Alderman Toone, who is chairman of the labor division; Mr. Ken Jones, chairman of the payrolls department, with Mrs. Jones; Mrs. Lydia McLean with Mrs. Taylor Spittal and Mr. Spittal, three ardent followers of the ponies, who will be there on opening day; Mrs. Geoff Edgelow, Mrs. Daryl Elford, chairman of the women's division, and Mrs. C. B. Jameson, one of her captains.

Followers of the horses who attend opening day of the 1962 Sandown meeting at Sidney next Friday afternoon will not only enjoy the races but will also be helping the current United Appeal which got "off to a good start" at the beginning of September. The Racing Association has announced that all net profits from the opening day will be donated to this worthwhile cause. George Gregory, chairman of the United Appeal committee says "We're relying on the racing fans to co-operate and make this a banner day."

She has fine speed and is capable of winning on any kind of track, sloppy or fast.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Spittal will be in their box on opening day at the races. With them will be Mrs. Spittal's mother, Mrs. Lydia McLean, left, and Mrs. Geoff Edgelow, second from right. Alderman Edgelow, now on a goodwill tour of the Prairie Provinces, arranged by the B.C. Toll Authority, will also be in the box.

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Bit Casual But Dressy: College Code for Clothes

By PENNY SAVER

Styles and prices of clothes for the high school or college girl show an infinite variety this year.

Tailored cotton blouses in various prints are on special in one store for $2.88, although the regular prices are from $3.95 to $4.95.

They have short sleeves or long—some of the latter with French cuffs or with cuff links.

For the music lover there are blouses with large designs of violins, French horns and music stands. Others will find patterns galore in colors to match any skirts or slacks.

What amazed me were the stretch slim jims which make such wonderful ski pants. Once the price was astronomical. Now you can buy a pair with side zippers in the legs for better ankle fit at just $8.95. Added attraction are the detachable under-the-foot straps which keep the slacks tightly in place when skiing. Pants have a one-way stretch action that gives when you bend (or sit down)—if your skiing is like Penny's!

At present the store has smart dark grey slacks but will soon have golds and greens.

For that dressy, casual look that is so dear to the heart of the elegant collegiate miss, there are matching sets in abundance this year.

Ski's in bright shades such as pink, blue or turquoise, sell for $11.95 and come with rainbow variety of sweaters to match which are $7.95 for plain, round-necked style or cardigans. Sweaters are made of soft, luxurious lambswool and angora.

Call Penny at 382-3131 for name of store with this wide selection of clothes for the young woman.

Time Is a Good Cure For Scars on the Face

(The Question Box) Q. "Is there any way to get rid of chicken pox scars on the face? Now that I am growing up they are getting very noticeable? I have tried olive oil."

A. The scars will dim and become much less noticeable in time. The reason they seem to be worse is because you are becoming more interested in your appearance as you grow up. Finally, they will be white and you can use a make-up base to cover them.

Q. "I am 14 years old, five feet four inches tall and weigh 128 pounds. My measurements are bust 37 inches, waist 26 and hips 36. Am I too big in the bust for my age? Should I lose weight? Is there any exercise for reducing the bust?"

A. You are some overweight. Lose from six to 10 pounds depending on your build. Do this by eliminating between meal snacks and substituting fresh fruit for desserts. Your figure is more mature than most girls of your age, but your measurements are in lovely ratio. When you lose weight, your bust will decrease in size. Do not worry about it. Later on you will be

New Book Helps Women To Beauty

By NONA DAMASKE

Have you ever thought what you would say if your home was threatened by fire?

Excluding family and animals, which naturally come first the choice is often amusing and not always very logical.

Family portraits, which can never be taken, record collections containing discs long since out of production, heirloom jewelry and valuable papers are most often mentioned and are natural enough answers.

I would want to save my books and that wouldn't be easy as they are many in number, heavy and slippery to handle in a rush.

It is not a very logical choice as the books have all been read, they are not very valuable in a monetary sense and I would guess that most of them could be replaced. I feel a strong attachment for them, however, because of inscriptions from dear friends, memories of funny little book shops in distant places and the joy of meeting some of the authors.

MET AUTHOR

Last week the shelf which contains my collections of books on fashion and beauty was increased by the addition of a new publication from New York. It is part of a first edition and personally inscribed by the author, whom I met last year.

This book has impressed me so much I want to share some of the highlights with you. It is the most sensibly written ten book on exercise and diet habits that I have read. Sen-sible most aptly describes the information contained in the 191 pages of this new book.

We all admire personalities who seem to sparkle with healthy good looks. Their figures are young and limber. They move with grace and ease. They perform their difficult daily tasks without a sign of strain or exhaustion. How do they do it? We must agree on one answer . . . they take good care of themselves.

Much of the contents could apply to the male as well as the female, but the author describes her story at today's woman.

No crash diets, no heart thumping exercise, no pills and no gimmicks . . . just common sense and will power.

What could be more direct, believable and understandable than the statement, "If you would lose weight reduce your food portions, and if you wish to gain, increase your food portions."

The watchwords used are moderation and regularity. To keep bright-eyed, to think quickly, to move with alacrity and to just plain "feel good" you should eat sensibly, exercise regularly and sleep soundly at all times, not for just a few days here and there.

The book contains three sets of meals for a full week—one for the overweight—one for the underweight and one for maintaining regular weight.

There are seven routines of rhythmic exercises and a figure chart for marking your own measurements.

For the past 25 years the author has operated a salon in New York which has really been enough to keep her busy, but a sincere wish to help all women has inspired her to write her book.

She has also made record with words and music designed for each of her seven body rhythm routines. The record is a 12-inch long play and has just been released. The book is in paper back form.

SICK WITH GRIEF.

DEAR ABBY: I go with a girl (we are not officially engaged) but I am very obligated to her, if you know what I mean. Whenever there is an office party where I work she wants me to take her. There are some cute girls working here and I would rather not bring a "date" as it cramps my style. I'm sure I don't have to draw you any pictures, Abby. How can I get out of taking my girl? She always knows about the office parties because she's friendly with a girl who works here.

STYLE CRAMPED.

DEAR STYLE: Taking your "girl" to a party when you'd prefer to be unengaged is like going hunting with the game warden. Extricate yourself from your "girl" by becoming less "obligated" (and you know what I mean) and enjoy your freedom.

Pastel Colors Provide Frame For Wedding in Baptist Church

Shades of pink, white and turquoise provided a pastel background for a recent wedding in First Baptist Church. Pink and white gladioli decorated the church and pink and white ribbons and pink dahlias marked the guest pews.

Rev. W. C. Smalley officiated at the ceremony which united in marriage Joyce Anne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Smith, 212 Hart Road, and Martin Gordon Kenney, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Kenney, 2909 Cook Street.

Mrs. E. Pollock sang "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied by Miss G. Evans.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of French lace. The bodice featured lily point sleeves, bateau neckline with pearls and borealis sequins. A four-tier skirt was gathered at the waistline. A fingertip veil matted in three tiers from a pointed crown touched with crystals. Rapture pink roses and stephanotis were in her bouquet.

Blending with the pink and white background were the turquoise blue silk facone gowns worn by the attendants, which were embossed with white and deeper turquoise flower appliques. Headpieces were flowers and whimsies in tone.

Mrs. K. Drummond was the matron of honor, Mrs. D. Baird was the bridesmaid and Miss M. Smith the bridesmaid. They carried bouquets of salmon pink gladiolas and gladioli.

Drug Pusher's 'Sympathy' Cuts Term

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man who sold narcotics out of sympathy saved himself five years in penitentiary Friday.

John Frederick Dillon, 38, had admitted he sold narcotics to RCMP undercover Constable James Hunt, who posed in the underworld as a crip-pled addict.

Dillon said he sold the drugs out of sympathy and said any one with a heart would have felt sorry for derelict Hunt portrayed. Magistrate Gordon Scott agreed Hunt had been very fair in substantiating Dillon's claim and said he would normally have sentenced Dillon to 10 years in prison. He gave Dillon five years.

"This case has disturbed me because the police admit that while you were trafficking in drugs you were doing it from a sense of friendship and not to the general public," the magistrate told Dillon.

Island Cascade Awesome Sight

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Imagine a river running over a precipice 12 times as high as Victoria's tallest high-rise apartment—plunging and cascading down to a green valley below.

Victoria photographer Jorgen Svendsen and I, over Labor Day weekend, saw this awe-inspiring sight from a vantage point on a 5,000-foot mountain in Strathcona Park:

We were watching Della Falls, which some authorities claim to be one of the world's highest, tumbling 1,443 feet from its crest to rocks below.

The over-all picture of the falls, flanked by snow-capped peaks, presented one of the most beautiful and primitive scenes we had ever seen.

It was a fitting climax to a long and tiresome journey by car, boat and finally on foot, starting at daybreak from Victoria and ending 16 hours later at nightfall.

We had hiked to the falls, some 13 miles distance from the head of Great Central Lake, to find out if it rated as the fifth highest falls in the

'HYSTERIA OVER CUBA'

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said today that "anti-Cuban hysteria is raging in the United States."

The Soviet news agency Tass reported that efforts were being made to whip up passion in the United States against Cuba, and that President Kennedy's administration "is taking practical measures for the preparation of a new aggression against the people's Cuba."

'Rockets Threaten Florida'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Emerson Rupert, Republican opponent of Senator George Smathers in the November general elections, sent a telegram to President Kennedy Friday saying Florida is in danger for more than 200 Russian missiles on Cuban soil.

Rupert said in the telegram that he had talked with many Cuban refugees in the Miami area who told him that the missiles are ready for launching in underground silos on military bases in Cuba.

Rupert called for President Kennedy to "enforce and maintain an immediate arms blockade around Communist Cuba to 'quarantine' the enemies which physically and economically threaten the safety of Florida."

Friday four major Cuban underground groups released a 20-page statement in Miami saying that more than 10,000 foreign troops have landed in Cuba, large missile bases will be completed in 60 days; and Cuba thereafter will join the Warsaw pact, the Communist counterpart of NATO.

The exile leaders said that when troop landings in Cuba are completed, the island 90 miles from Florida will be garrisoned in the west by Chinese, in the central portion by Russians, Hungarians and Czechs, and on Isle of Pines by Africans.

They said missile bases under construction in Cuba will have a striking range up to 400 miles.

Anti-Castro Group Ready To Hit Ships

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The leader of anti-Castro Cubans who shelled Havana last month said Friday his group is preparing to launch sea attacks on Communist-bloc ships in Cuban waters.

Juan Manuel Falvat told a press conference:

"Any Communist flagged ship regardless of nationality, seen in Cuban territorial waters will be regarded as a military target and will be attacked without previous warning."

Salvat and members of the Students' Revolutionary Directorate came to Caracas from Miami to issue what they called the Caracas declaration as an answer to a Soviet announcement of military aid to Cuba.

He said his organization now has 300 youths active and presumably ready to take part in hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

Wife Charged With Murder

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Police today charged a woman with capital murder in the stabbing death of her husband.

Mrs. Mary Eise Pearce was arrested Friday night, shortly after Percy George Pearce, 57, was found sprawled in a pool of blood in the kitchen of his east end home.

The body of Pearce, a Department of Veterans' Affairs janitor, was found when police responded to an ambulance call to his home.

JOB FOR LIFE

Ghana's national assembly Friday adopted a private member's motion to extend President Kwame Nkrumah's term of office to cover his lifetime. The Ghana defence minister, Kofi Baako said Nkrumah has "a mission to fulfill for Ghana and Africa."

Orthodox Douks Ask Protection

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP) — Orthodox Doukhobors Friday pleaded with the British Columbia government for protection from the radical Sons of Freedom sect.

"In God's name take the necessary steps to prevent them from causing us more harm," said a telegram to Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

"Surely our past suffering at their hands calls for preventive action rather than to wait until the damage is done."

The telegram, sent by the executive committee of the 12,000 Orthodox Doukhobors in British Columbia, asked the minister to "put a stop to having them get away with everything up to and including murder." It did not explain the murder reference.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

The telegram was sent as Orthodox Doukhobors took precautions to protect their property as a march by some 750 radical Sons of Freedom members of their sect remained stalled in this community 250 miles east of Vancouver.

Orthodox Leader John Verigin said many are spending sleepless nights watching out the window for "unwelcome guests."

EXPELLED

Fugitive French rightist Georges Bidault was expelled from Italy Friday as he was preparing for a meeting of his followers in an Adriatic coastal town. An Italian government spokesman said the 62-year-old former French premier was escorted to the frontier of his choice but refused to say which border.

He said his organization now has 300 youths active and presumably ready to take part in hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Police today charged a woman with capital murder in the stabbing death of her husband.

Mrs. Mary Eise Pearce was arrested Friday night, shortly after Percy George Pearce, 57, was found sprawled in a pool of blood in the kitchen of his east end home.

The body of Pearce, a Department of Veterans' Affairs janitor, was found when police responded to an ambulance call to his home.

Seems th' on'y doors open' t' them Sons o' Freedom are jail doors.

Don't like all this publicity fer Della Falls. Somebody's sure t' want' t' run' em into a pipe.

Then there wuz th' feller who took his vacation early, t' git' th' good weather.

Mac Faces PMs In Crucial Talks

London Meeting Monday

(Times News Services)

LONDON — One of the most dramatic and momentous meetings of Commonwealth prime ministers opens Monday to discuss the effects on the Commonwealth if Britain enters the European Common Market.

Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will face the most difficult task of his career when he seeks to persuade the 15 visiting prime ministers or their deputies that Britain's entry into the Common Market eventually be of major benefit to them all.

Every Commonwealth member is deeply concerned that if Britain does enter Europe it will not mean a weakening of Commonwealth bonds.

Their views possibly were summed up by Rhodesian Federal Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky when he arrived today.

PROBLEM POSED

He said: "An economic unity to be really successful has to develop into a political unity. A political unity must mean a surrender of sovereignty to some central organizations. That is one of the problems that has got to be faced."

Prime Minister Nehru of India expressed doubt that the Commonwealth will be a force for world peace if Britain joins the European Common Market.

Nehru was among the last batch of Commonwealth leaders who arrived here today for the prime ministers' conference which opens Monday.

He told a press conference British entry into the Common Market might have a weakening effect on the Commonwealth, especially if some kind of European political union resulted.

Asked whether he would still consider the Commonwealth a force for world peace if Britain enters the Common Market, he replied:

"It depends on how far the Common Market is a force for peace. If it is just an extension of the NATO alliance, it becomes a party to this world conflict."

MAC WANTS MANDATE

The ECM negotiations are still far from complete and the final terms which can be obtained from the "Six" for special treatment of Britain's trade with the Commonwealth are not known.

What Macmillan hopes to obtain from this conference is a fairly wide mandate from the Commonwealth to negotiate within agreed limits.

But most of the prime ministers are unwilling to accept this. Since arriving in London, many of them have been pressing for a second conference to be held, probably early next spring, when the final terms of the "Six" should be known.

The Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders, in particular, are pressing for a second meeting. But the British government is not anxious for this.

Baluba Chief Escapes

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Albert Kalonji, emperor of the Baluba tribe and former secessionist leader, has escaped from a Congolese prison, qualified sources reported today.

He had eaten in a Negro section of a Jackson, Miss., bus depot.

Governor Barnett said in an interview he did not pay any attention to the group and that in Mississippi "all the colored people... like segregation and are happy."

In a speech to the bar association, he said the solution of racial problems will follow the solution of economic problems.

The whites and Negroes "are struggling together for a bigger and better south with greater educational and economic op-
